

Quaker United Nations Office

JOB TITLE: Programme Assistant, Human Rights and Refugees
LOCATION: Geneva, Switzerland
DURATION: 1 September 2018 to 31 August 2019 (preceded by ten days preparation in UK from mid-August 2018)

This is a junior professional opportunity for a person with an interest in international affairs and the United Nations to experience a range of international work, while working primarily as an assistant to QUNO's Representative for Human Rights and Refugees.

Background

The Quaker United Nations Office (QUNO) in Geneva and New York seeks to bring Quaker peace and justice concerns to international processes through its programmes in peace & disarmament, human rights & refugees, human impacts of climate change, and food & sustainability.

Our style of work is focussed on “quiet diplomacy”, including through providing intellectual and physical space for building understanding, exploring alternatives, providing information and helping change attitudes through off the record informal small-group conversations among diplomats, UN staff, NGOs and those in the field. We also use our general consultative status at the United Nations Economic and Social Council and our observer status in several other international bodies to make oral and written statements based on our research and experience and that of others.

The Human Rights and Refugees programme's current priorities are human rights in the context of migration, international policy on refugee protection, conscientious objection to military service, children of prisoners (including children of parents sentenced to death or executed) and links between human rights and peacebuilding.

This appointment provides an opportunity to gain first-hand knowledge and experience of Quaker international work, partly through substantive work on the programme area and linkages between programmes and partly by supporting all the members of the QUNO staff.

Duties and Responsibilities

The post comprises two sets of responsibilities as follows:

1) Programme work

Assisting the Representative for Human Rights and Refugees in her programme of work including by:

- helping to prepare submissions to the UN (in particular the Committee on the Rights of the Child), and drafting other materials;
- investigating and developing a particular area of work, within the programme's priority areas;
- helping to develop programme strategy;
- attending and reporting on UN, NGO and other meetings, giving presentations and representing QUNO at such meetings, as appropriate;
- assisting in organising and participating in meetings and events at Quaker House and other venues;
- writing internal notes and reports;
- collecting, reading, analysing, sorting and filing documents; supporting all QUNO programmes to engage with human rights mechanisms and undertaking other cross programme activities;
- responding to enquiries by letter, email and telephone.

2) Additional Administrative and Support Tasks:

- jointly leading the organization and the logistics of QUNO's Geneva Summer School and taking a major role in its implementation;
- maintaining the QUNO fundraising database (keep donor research up to date and informing relevant staff members of appropriate opportunities);
- assisting in the arrangements for lunches and other events which take place at Quaker House, including cooking and clearing up and other tasks around the House;
- working with members of staff on routine clerical duties including minute taking, dealing with filing, post, photocopying, and all aspects of hospitality;
- assisting with the maintenance of the QUNO data base and other tasks related to QUNO outreach activities;
- assisting with fundraising research, grant proposals and report writing;
- assisting with production of QUNO's Geneva Reporter and content for the website and social media.

Whilst the work focuses on the United Nations and other international organizations in Geneva, much of the day-to-day work is administrative and takes place in the Quaker UN Office.

Everyone at QUNO works as part of a small team and contributes to the work of all programmes, including exploring the connections between them. From time to time we are all asked to assist in other areas of work.

Skills and Qualifications

A key feature of the post is the Programme Assistant's ability and willingness to contribute actively to QUNO's administrative, corporate and programme work. The post would suit a Quaker member or attender or person with an understanding of the Quaker approach to the work. We are looking for someone who has taken a demonstrable interest in human rights and refugees, e.g. through voluntary or other activities. Interest, enthusiasm and proven analytical and writing skills are more important than specialist or academic knowledge.

- Applicants will usually hold a degree or equivalent, or be pursuing further study. They should have a demonstrable interest in international affairs and the work of the United Nations and other international organizations in general, with a particular interest in issues relating to human rights and refugee protection.
- English is the working language of the office. Knowledge of French is desirable, as Geneva is a French-speaking environment. Knowledge of another UN language is an advantage.
- Verbal and written communication skills are essential.
- Research and analysis skills are essential.
- Computer skills are required.
- Experience of donor research and working on funding proposals is an advantage.
- Enthusiasm, the ability to get on well with all kinds of people, a willingness to help the rest of the team and a sense of humour are all helpful.

Due to strict immigration regulations in Switzerland, employees at this level would usually need to be Swiss or EU Member State nationals (this at present includes the UK). For an exceptional candidate with strong Quaker connections not eligible to work in the EU or Switzerland, we would be willing to make a case for their employment to the Swiss authorities. However, since there is no guarantee of success, any offer would be made subject to a successful application for a work permit.
